100+ Unblock MySpace Proxies - Free For All

Your webmaster search is: 67.159.44.96

Myspace is unarguably one of the largest social media websites on the interweb. With an Alexa ranking of 6 and millions of users logging on every day, there is fun to be had meeting and greeting, blogging, looking at pictures and videos, and keeping track of your “bestest of buddies.”

There is a problem with this though. Because, for some reason, many companies believe the use of Myspace in the office lowers productivity, they will block anyone on the inside behind a web filter.

Schools employ this to keep naughty kids doing homework, instead of interacting, networking and in general, having fun. The content on Myspace must be too inappropriate for most libraries, despite them taking very low cautions against the real threat to children: pornography. Doesn't a public access point insist itself be open to the public and allowed to surf all public domains? I guess not.

Well, there are several ways you can get by this. You can always attempt to hack past your server's firewall. You can set up a proxy from your work, school or library computer and surf through your computer at home. If you are feeling like taking a risk, you could try to sabotage the filter system or erase the files if you have access to them. Chances are though, that you have no clue how to do any of this and probably don't want to risk messing with thousands of dollars in equipment and software or face criminal charges.

There is an easy answer to your problem, though! You can use a free web proxy to get past all those filters and log on to your favorite networking website. Basically, using this proxy site is no different than you being in a location where you could normally access Myspace. The information is just transferred through in a way that will bypass the filter and let you get a little relaxed instead of stressed about your next big project. The one downside to using a proxy is that when a filter catches these proxies it will be logged and blocked forever from then on. There are so many proxy sites though, that it would be impossible to block all of them.

Here is a list of proxy sites. The list is not complete so feel free to contribute 😊

You can not use the ip you see next to a proxy site as a web proxy (ip:port). The list is provided just to let you know how you are seen by the visited site.
